Dear Stella:—

I have just telephoned to June to hear from Zoe how you are, thinking that she had spent Saturday & Sunday at home with you. I met her about the middle of last week when I was going down to lunch and she was starting out to take her lesson, I have forgotten what she said she was studying, but anyway she said she was going home to stay Saturday & Sunday. June said Frank was at Cottonwood yesterday and found you sick with a bad cold. Take care of that cold girlie for it is only the second one you have had this fall. It is easy to catch them but they need careful handling. Its a good thing I did not come out to help you catch a worse one and I hope you will keep out of the cold and soon cure yourself and when you think a change of climate will do you good, take a run up to June's. She says all are pretty well. I hope your mother's ankle will soon be well but she must take things easy now that you are at home and must make you bear all the burdens. The folks are busy at home getting the house in shape for the holidays and everything is topsy turvy, but with a fair chance of recovering within a week or so. We are busy here at the store with prospects of no rest for any of us until after New Years. We work late, and each Sunday will find me with work to do until we have finished stock taking. If I remember rightly I told you that my uncle is going to California soon. Yes he is. Soon after the first of the year. He may be obliged to get a new suit or new hat anyway. When he does I will know he is about ready to go. We've just hired a new girl for the retail department and that's another sign. She isn't very pretty but she is sweet. There are six girls with us now and if we add two more there will be one for each of us fellows and then we can get two saleswomen to go on the road so that we will have two salesmen & two saleswomen. Well goodbye Sweetheart I must go home & get supper. Write to me if you don't come to town this week

Yours Lovingly
 Bert.
